Daryl Johnson, General Chairman Elect for the 2007 Amateur National Championship, provides the following update to the delegates to the 2006 meeting as to potential location, grounds and timing for the 2007 trial.

Based on current information, it looks like the recommended first choice for location and timing of the 2007 Amateur National Championship will be "Moses Lake" (NE Washington State), with an estimated start date during the first week of December. The backup location would be NE Colorado, near Sterling, CO, with an estimated start date during the first week of November. Additional information will be available from Daryl at the delegates meeting.
